

Congratulations!

Jessica Greenwood

Jessica, Master's student in the Higher Education program, recently won the national award, Outstanding NODA (National Orientation Directors Association) Intern. This award recognizes individuals who have demonstrated commitment to learning, professional development, and service, through the successful completion of a NODA Internship experience. She received the award after completing an internship this past summer at the University of Wisconsin-Madison and was nominated for it by the staff.